JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

NINETY-SIXTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY

OF THE

STATE OF MISSOURI

SECOND REGULAR SESSION

FIRST DAY—WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 2012

The Senate was called to order at 12:00 noon by Lieutenant Governor Peter Kinder.

The Reverend Carl Gauck offered the following prayer:

Gracious God, we come before You in this New Year with our prayers for a successful new session as we deal with the needs within our state. We come grateful to serve and glad to be together once again. We come prepared with many bills already pre-filed and ready for their progression for our consideration. We come to pray that we will deal with each bill with serious discernment how each will contribute to moving Missouri forward in a sluggish economy and benefit our people. So abide with us this day and let Your Spirit direct our thoughts and actions during 2012. In Your Holy Name we pray. Amen.

Opening Address

Senator Rob Mayer, President Pro Tem

Second Regular Session, 96th General Assembly

January 4, 2012

Lt. Governor Kinder, members of the Missouri Senate, our families, friends, and fellow Missourians:

We have returned here today to begin the second regular session of the 96th General Assembly with many similar challenges facing us today as we did one year ago. For nine of us this is our final session due to term limits. The senator from the St. Francois, the senator from the 11th, the senator from the 13th, the senator from the Clay, the senator from Stoddard, the senator from Cape Girardeau, the senator from Lawrence, and the senator from Howell, it has been an honor and privilege to serve with each of you.

For eight others it is a reelection year.

Given these factors some predict not much will be accomplished. I say the time for speculation is over. Rather we must act, and do so swiftly to pass a balanced budget without a tax increase for the people of Missouri and to help put Missourians back to work in this stagnant and weak economy. Missouri's taxpayers and workforce deserve nothing less.

One of our toughest challenges this year will again be crafting a state budget that spends no more than the state takes in through revenue collections. As we weather the biggest economic recession since the Great Depression, Missouri is one of a few states in good financial condition. In fact, we are one of only seven states with a Triple A Bond rating.

That is because over the past three years we have been prudent and made tough fiscal decisions. Our current budget lives within the taxpayers' means, funds the critical functions of government, protects our most vulnerable and makes education funding a priority.

To date, our state's revenue is showing signs of growth, but not much. Unfortunately, slow revenue growth, increased mandatory expenses in programs like Medicaid, and the end of more than $400 million in one-time federal stabilization dollars means we could be forced to make further reductions in the upcoming budget for Fiscal Year 2013.

In 2010, I led the appropriations process in order to reduce spending by more than half a billion dollars to make sure the state lived within its means. The Senate, in cooperation with the House, took the reins after the governor presented an unbalanced budget and came to us mid-session to share the full and dismal financial reality our state faced.

We made tough decisions. And we will be prepared to make tough decisions again. However, we first need a governor that will present an honest budget forecast – no matter how unpopular – and then recommend a budget that is balanced. That includes not basing his balanced budget on special legislation that must pass.

To do so, he must embrace common sense solutions such as those presented by the Missouri Working Group on Sentencing and Corrections. This unprecedented, bipartisan and inter-branch collaboration has examined the data and made recommendations on how to give taxpayers a better public safety return on their corrections dollars while keeping Missouri safe.

Missouri's prison population more than doubled between 1990 and 2005, with the total number of inmates hovering at 30,000 today. More alarming is that during that same period, spending on corrections increased by 249 percent. Along with other state leaders, I helped establish this working group led by the senators from the 29th and 10th that has found we can improve public safety and lower the burden on taxpayers by adopting proven, evidenced-based approaches to reduce recidivism and hold offenders accountable. I expect our chamber to pass legislation based on this working group's recommendations that will provide Missouri with a better public safety return on its investment in corrections.

In the same vein, we will also visit the recommendations senators made last year as part of our Rebooting Government Initiative. In this ongoing budget crisis, we must continually examine ways to reduce the size and scope of state government so taxpayers can afford to sustain it.

I understand, we understand, and now the governor must understand, it is ideas like these that we must consider in order to continue to make education funding a priority.

Education will continue to be a priority for us. In the current fiscal year that began July 1, we demonstrated our commitment to education by voting to maintain the school funding formula at its current level; voting to lessen a 7 percent cut to higher education proposed by the governor by adopting a $12 million increase for Missouri's two- and four-year colleges and universities; and voting to increase Missouri's K-12 school busing line item by $10 million that the governor is currently withholding.

By lessening that 7 percent cut, we allowed our colleges and universities to find and pass on real savings to out-of-pocket expenses students would have incurred. We're hoping the governor will release the K-12 transportation funding to help prevent local schools from having to raid funding for our classrooms or other dollars directed to education.

Plus, we voted to restore funding to ACCESS Missouri Scholarships to help Missouri students attend the in-state public or private college or university of their choice.

We will continue to make education a priority in funding and resources in the 2012 Legislative Session.

This year, we will also continue our efforts to help put Missourians back to work in good paying jobs with benefits. A few years ago, we eliminated the corporate franchise tax for three out of every four Missouri businesses. Last session, we were successful in setting in motion a phase-out of this unfair, double taxation for all Missouri businesses. We said this move would encourage investment by large corporations in Missouri and it has. Since its passage, two major auto-manufacturing companies have announced plans to invest a total of nearly $1.5 Billion creating 3,260 new jobs. Rather than growing government through higher taxes, we have allowed corporations to invest this money in growing their businesses and hiring new employees.

But our work is not done. While the number of unemployed Missourians has decreased, it is still too high. As of November, 8.2 percent or more than 250,000 Missourians are still out of work.

As we talk about creating jobs, it is important to understand we are not in a vacuum. We must compete nationally, and even globally, in order to have new companies locate here and existing companies choose to expand their operations here.

Our plan in the Senate starts by curbing excessive regulations, restoring balance to the Missouri Human Rights Act and returning the Workers' Compensation System as the exclusive remedy for workplace accidents.

A measure filed in the Senate would rein in excessive regulations and rules created by state agency boards comprised of un-elected bureaucrats. Few things can bring private sector growth to a halt more quickly than overly contrived red tape. That is why we must tear down the walls that are economic barriers to all businesses in Missouri. Oversight and accountability of these regulations would come about through several key goals, including creating ten-year sunsets for new and existing rules and regulations; preventing obsolete, duplicative or conflicting rules; consideration of eliminating unnecessary paperwork; and ensuring rules are narrowly tailored while still providing adequate protection of the public.

We will revisit legislation the governor vetoed that would improve employers' ability to hire and retain quality workers by ending lawsuit abuses. The bill would bring state law in line with federal human rights laws, allowing employers to invest more in jobs rather than spending money on lawsuit abuses and their increased attorneys' fees.

We will also work to restore protections for individual employees from personal lawsuits for honest accidents at work. Missouri employees and employers currently face higher risks due to a court decision. By abrogating this decision, Missouri employees will no longer be at risk of personal lawsuits stemming from workplace injuries and will no longer have to seek insurance to protect against lawsuits if an accident were to occur.

We all realize one of the keys to our success when it comes to economic development is directly tied to the development of our future workforces. If we fail to have a prepared, highly educated and well-trained workforce we will not be able to attract new businesses to locate here – especially those that demand employees with specialty degrees or skill sets.

We must also address the revolving door of drop outs and failed policies in our state's two largest school districts: St. Louis and Kansas City. Both have a decades-old cycle of failing their students. We must look to promote solutions to end this vicious cycle by bringing these school districts up to par so that every Missouri student has an equal opportunity for a world-class education.

We will also work to make sure Missourians are better represented when it comes to the select few who ultimately interview and choose the appellate judges who serve the people of our state. There must be more transparency and accountability than what exists in the current process.

Last year we took a step to enhance the accountability of how Missourians' tax dollars are spent. The work of a new committee began and its members were tasked with examining how state departments were spending taxpayer dollars.

When I created this committee last year, I could not have envisioned how important it would be in determining the state's role in failed economic development projects in Missouri communities. The senator from the first and his colleagues continue to delve into the details of at least two failed projects – Mamtek and WiFi Sensors.

And they will not stop until they finish their due diligence in determining whether or not our state economic development department did their due diligence when recommending these ultimately failed projects. This committee will report on how to prevent similar failures from happening to other Missouri communities.

We have much to do this year. As we each prepare ourselves to be away from our families and communities for the coming months, also prepare yourself to be ready to act and complete these important goals to benefit the people of Missouri.

In the Senate, we have enjoyed a unique cooperation that bridges party lines. At the end of the day, we work together to do what is in the best interest of Missourians. With that foundation, I believe we can accomplish much this year to put Missouri on a successful, long-term sustainable path for the future.

Thank you.

In accordance with Section 9.141, RSMo, the Bill of Rights was read.

On motion of Senator Dempsey, the Senate recessed until 2:30 p.m.

RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the Senate was called to order by Senator Pearce.

The Joint Committee appointed to wait upon His Excellency, Governor Jay Nixon, escorted the Governor to the dais where he delivered the State of the State Address to the Joint Assembly:

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS
GOVERNOR JAY NIXON

Thank you.

Legislative leaders, Judges of the Missouri Supreme Court, Lieutenant Governor Kinder, state officials, members of the General Assembly, members of my cabinet, and my fellow Missourians.

It’s an honor to be here this evening, joined by Missouri’s First Lady, Georganne Nixon, and members of our family.

Over the last year, many Missouri communities have braved unthinkable hardships. And none more so than in Joplin – the toughest town on God’s green earth.

Time and again, the people of Missouri have met those challenges with unwavering strength and determination.

A few months ago, on the first day of school in Joplin, I met a remarkable young man named Quinton Anderson. Quinton is a senior at Joplin High School. He’s an excellent student ... and a science whiz. He hopes someday to create new vaccines.

Graduation day this year will have special meaning for Quinton, as it will for so many in Joplin.

Because it was on graduation day last year – May 22 at 5:41 p.m. – that Joplin was hit by the deadliest tornado in modern history.

Winds clocked at 200 miles an hour tore a swath a mile wide and six miles long through the heart of the community.

When I stood there surrounded by smashed cars and shattered homes, it was nothing but devastation as far as the eye could see.

In just 19 minutes, the twister left thousands of people homeless. More than 7,000 homes and hundreds of businesses were damaged or destroyed. More than a thousand people were injured.

161 lost their lives.

The tornado leveled Quinton's home.

Both his parents were killed.

Quinton was flung through the air and found blocks away – face-down in a ditch with a fractured skull, a shattered spine, his left leg torn to shreds.

He spent five and a half weeks in the hospital. And after he left the hospital, Quinton had this to say:

"I used to just take each day like it was given to me. But it's not. It's a gift. You've gotta pray for the next one.

"Don't give up hope. Always pray to get stronger each day.

"And if you're in physical therapy… and they tell you to walk ... always take that extra step."

Always take that extra step …

… His parents would be so proud.

Quinton, your faith and your fight have shown the world that the spirit of Joplin is unbreakable. People of Missouri, please welcome Quinton Anderson and his sister, Grace.

Mother Nature hit us hard in 2011, starting with tornadoes on New Year's Eve …

A blizzard that shut down I-70 from St. Louis to Kansas City…

Record flooding and drought in the Bootheel … and in northwest Missouri …

The intentional breach of the Birds Point levee by the Corps of Engineers …

More tornadoes on Good Friday …

Another tornado in Sedalia … and of course, the EF-5 tornado in Joplin and the surrounding area.

And through every natural disaster they endured, the people of Missouri relied on our brave men and women in uniform: our first responders, our law enforcement community, and all who have answered the call to military service.

In the aftermath of Joplin alone, men and women from more than 400 public safety agencies rushed to help.

Certain special people have a spirit that compels them to run toward trouble, not away from it. And Missouri State Trooper Fred Guthrie Jr. was one of them.

In 2007, Trooper Guthrie earned our state's highest law enforcement honor, the Missouri Medal of Valor, for saving a woman during a violent storm on Smithville Lake.

It was the same selfless spirit that compelled Trooper Guthrie to brave the swift currents of the Missouri River, which claimed his life last August.

Fred Guthrie was a hero, who died as he lived: protecting others. Even as we mourn our loss, we are lifted up by his courage. Missouri is a better place for his service.

Please join me in thanking the family of Trooper Fred Guthrie: his wife, Teresa; and their three children, Amber, Dylan, and Cody; and all our men and women in uniform.

Quinton Anderson. Fred Guthrie. Our men and women in uniform.

They have shown us the face of courage. They have shown us what it means to be strong in the toughest of times. What it means to take that extra step.

And we've seen our share of tough times these past few years.

It began in 2008, when our nation was hit with the most severe economic recession of our lifetime. In the last six months of 2008, we lost more than 55,000 jobs. In December of 2008, Missouri saw more than 100 mass layoffs, the most ever since we began tracking that number.

But we didn't make excuses. We didn't wait around for help.

Missourians stood up ... got to work … showed our strength.

Yes, times have been tough. But Missourians have always been tougher.

And that's why I'm so optimistic about our future.

The people of the Show-Me State are stubborn and self-reliant.

When times are tough, we buckle down and get to work.

Missourians don't want a handout.

Missourians don't want a bailout.

Missourians just want an opportunity to succeed.

The people of Missouri turned to all of us … for strong leadership … for a clear path forward … and for hope for a brighter future.

And I'm proud to say that because of our strong leadership, Missouri is once again moving forward.

Unlike Washington, we've worked together like adults … no matter what part of our state we're from, how we make a living, or what party we belong to.

Unlike Washington, we've kept a laser-like focus on job creation.

Unlike Washington, we've maintained our strict fiscal discipline and balanced our budget – and we've done it without raising taxes.

Our commitment to balancing the budget, holding the line on taxes, and our focus on creating jobs, is paying off.

The national recession brought sharp job losses in 2008 and 2009, but we have turned the corner. Today, it was reported that our unemployment rate is now at its lowest level in three years.

Missouri farms and businesses are shipping more goods around the globe, generating billions of dollars of economic activity and thousands of jobs here at home.

And together, we're bringing the American auto industry back to life right here in the Show-Me State.

But there is more work to do.

Tonight, I'll lay out a specific strategy to create more jobs and grow our economy.

That strategy builds on the granite foundation of fiscal discipline we have laid here in Missouri:

- Balancing the budget;
- Holding the line on taxes;
- Making government smaller, smarter and more efficient.

The national recession, and the gridlock in Washington, created tough budget times for all the states.

Some states simply chose to ignore the problem, spent more money than they had, and racked up huge deficits.

But not here in Missouri. Since taking office, I've cut government spending by $1.6 billion.

And with the balanced budget I present tonight, I'll have reduced the government's payroll by 4,100 positions. The state workforce is the smallest it's been in 15 years.

Those decisions were tough, but necessary.

Other states haven't shown that fiscal discipline. More than 30 states have raised taxes, including Kansas and Illinois.

But we have not.

Because we know that Missouri families can't afford a tax increase. Period.

In fact, to help more small businesses create jobs and grow, we've begun to phase out the outdated franchise tax on thousands of Missouri businesses.

That means more money to their bottom line – and more jobs for Missouri workers.

But we haven't just made your government smaller. We're also making your government smarter.

By 2015, the Department of Transportation will have cut $512 million in overhead and administrative costs, and put that money where it belongs: building roads and bridges.

We've consolidated offices and cut our energy bills. We've put critical services online, including teacher certification; insurance agent licenses; and GED transcripts. We've eliminated paperwork, and slashed printing and postage costs.

Because of our focus on fiscal responsibility and efficiency, Missouri is one of the few states with a Triple-A credit rating from all three rating agencies. Kansas can't say that. Neither can Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Nebraska or Tennessee.

New Jersey got downgraded by all three credit rating agencies in the last year. Even the federal government got downgraded by Standard and Poor's.

You know what that says about us here in Missouri?

We know how to manage our money – better than our neighboring states, and much better than Washington.

Our Triple-A credit rating saves the taxpayers millions – and it signals that Missouri is a smart place to invest.

While we're talking about government efficiency, let me make a related point. For the past three years, I have called for comprehensive tax credit reform. Some of you in this room stood with me on this issue. Others did not.

The consequences of this inaction are clear. Over the past four years, more than $2 billion in state tax credits have been redeemed.

Effective tax credits are used to create jobs and grow our economy. But tax credits that aren't delivering for Missourians must be retooled and reformed. We all know that dollars spent on tax credits are dollars we cannot invest in other critical priorities.

Once again, I ask you to pass comprehensive tax credit reform to get this spending under control.

Balancing our budget. Holding the line on taxes. Maintaining a spotless Triple-A credit rating. These are all signs that Missouri is headed in the right direction.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce recently called Missouri a leader and ranked us as one of the Top Ten business-friendly states in the nation because of our low taxes and fiscal discipline.

We also have a safe workforce. That's another reason we're poised for growth. Reducing on-the-job injuries is a point of pride for Missouri workers – and employers.

Since I became your Governor, workers' injury claims have gone down every year, and are now almost 50 percent lower than they were nearly two decades ago.

That means real cost savings for employers. The cost of workers' compensation has come down each year I've been Governor. In fact, businesses are paying less now for workers' comp coverage than they were back in 1994.

Here in Missouri, we're standing firm to protect workers' safety and workers' rights.

Because, as we all know, a strong and safe workforce makes a strong economy.

From our low taxes to our strong workforce, Missouri is well positioned for job creation. To keep our economy growing, we must build on these strengths.

That's what our Missouri Works strategy will do. With your help, we will:

- One, grow more auto supplier jobs in Missouri;

- Two, sell more Missouri-made goods overseas;
- Three, prepare more workers for high-tech careers;
- Four, train and hire more veterans;
- Five, jumpstart innovation in science and technology;
- Six, target high-growth industries; and
- Seven, create jobs in rural communities.

Let's start with the automotive industry.

Missouri has always been an automotive state. It's who we are. It's in our blood.

But for decades, the American auto industry had been in decline.

When I took office in 2009, thousands of jobs at Claycomo and Wentzville were at risk. We couldn't sit by and watch those jobs go to other states, or other countries.

But we didn't give up on the American auto industry. We believed in our hearts that American workers would build automobiles that could compete in a world economy.

But it was up to us to make sure they were built right here in the Show-Me State.

So, I went to Detroit, and met with the heads of Ford and GM.

And after those meetings, we took bold action.

I called the General Assembly into special session. Folks from across our state – urban and rural, business and labor, Democrats and Republicans – came together and worked with us to pass the Missouri Manufacturing Jobs Act.

And it has paid off.

Last October, Ford announced that it will invest $1.1 billion in Claycomo.

To put that in perspective, that's a bigger capital investment than building Arrowhead and Kauffman stadiums – combined.

Ford is going to produce the Transit van in the United States for the first time. Until now, it's only been produced overseas. But, because of our work, this vehicle will now be built with pride right here in the Show-Me State.

No more outsourcing, folks. We're bringing jobs back to Missouri.

In addition to the Transit, Ford is adding a second shift at Claycomo to produce more F-150 pickups.

This massive investment will bring 1,600 new jobs to the Claycomo plant – on top of the existing 3,800 jobs we saved.

Just two weeks later, GM announced that it would invest $380 million to build its new Chevrolet Colorado at Wentzville, and add a second shift on its two existing vehicles.

That's another 1,660 new jobs right here in Missouri.

I wish all of you could have been there with me when we made those announcements. After all they've been through, to see the look in those workers' eyes … to know they can put food on the table … and clothes on their kids' backs; to know they can pay the mortgage and the electric bill … to know that they can put money in the collection plate on Sunday.

What we do here really matters.

And we won't stop now.

Last week, I was back again in Detroit, sitting face-to-face with senior executives at Ford, GM, and some of the world's largest auto suppliers.

I was there for one reason: to get more auto parts suppliers to invest in the Show-Me State. Whether they're making seats or steering wheels, axles or airbags, we want suppliers to bring more of those jobs to Missouri.

As part of our Missouri Works strategy, I call on the legislature once again to stand up with me and fight for the automotive industry. We must pass legislation to help auto suppliers create new jobs across Missouri.

Make no mistake: Just like before, competition for these jobs will be stiff.

But to the Missouri taxpayers, let me say this:

We won with Ford. We won with GM. And we will win with the auto suppliers and create even more jobs.

Let's get it done.

The next component of Missouri Works is to sell more Missouri-made goods overseas to create more jobs here at home.

It's clear the world wants what Missouri's got: Cotton and chemicals. Soybeans and semiconductors. F-150s and F-15s.

When I talk about selling Missouri-made goods overseas, I don't mean just the Fortune 500s that have an established global footprint. Competing globally is just as important for small businesses and family farms in every corner of our state.

One company that's ahead of the curve is Forrest Keeling Nursery in Elsberry, founded 63 years ago in the backyard of Dr. Forrest Keeling. Today, the nursery grows more than 250 types of trees, shrubs and grasses and sells those products around the world. And they have patents pending in more than 50 countries.

Last year, I had the pleasure of visiting this small, hometown business that's winning in the global economy.

On behalf of all of our growing Missouri exporters, please welcome Forrest Keeling's CEO, Wayne Lovelace; his wife, Judy; and their daughter, Kim.

Because of companies like this, Missouri exports were up by $1.2 billion in the first three quarters of 2011. And that was on top of our outstanding 35 percent growth in 2010.

As part of Missouri Works, we're going to keep this momentum building by creating a one-stop shop to help Missouri businesses and farms find more customers in new international markets.

And with the new trade offices we'll be opening soon in China, Southeast Asia and South America, we're taking the "Made in Missouri" brand global.

Last fall, I led a delegation of more than 60 Missouri business and agricultural leaders to China, where we signed agreements to sell $4.6 billion worth of Missouri products.

Because, I don't know about you … but I think it's time the guy in Beijing walked into his local store and saw "Made in America" stickers on the products he's buying.

Another part of our Missouri Works strategy is worker training.

In a global economy with constantly evolving technology, training and education can never stop.

We have established new higher-education programs like Caring for Missourians, Training for Tomorrow, MoHealthWINS and our Nurse Training Initiative to prepare thousands more Missourians for rewarding careers that exist today.

Last year, we also increased Missouri's investment in our Customized Training Program by 50 percent. That record investment allowed us to train nearly 37,000 workers who are on the job now at more than 300 Missouri businesses.

As part of our Missouri Works strategy, the budget I present tonight continues our record investment in worker training for a second year, especially in high-tech areas so critical to modern manufacturing.

One of the growing companies we've helped with worker training is Meramec Electrical Products, which employs 130 people at its state-of-the-art facility in Crawford County.

Our Customized Training Program helped Meramec reduce production costs by 30 percent; become more competitive in the global market; and create 25 new jobs last year.

On behalf of all of our innovative small businesses, please welcome Meramec's CEO, Nick Sanazaro, and CFO Carolyn Sanazaro.

Now, let's talk about military veterans.

Honoring – and employing – our military veterans is another key element of our Missouri Works strategy.

During my last visit to Afghanistan, I was talking with a group of soldiers who were about to go out on patrol. As they were suiting up, I asked one of the soldiers what he was most worried about.

His answer surprised me. He didn't say he was most worried about facing the enemy that night. No. He looked me in the eyes and said, "Governor, I'm worried about whether there will be a job for me when I get home."

Folks, our job is to make sure the answer to that question is a resounding YES.

Every veteran who needs a job should be able to get one.

In 2009, we passed legislation to begin phasing out state taxes on military retirement income.

That law is a strong signal that we want military veterans to move to Missouri, to work in Missouri, and to make Missouri their home.

In 2010, we launched Show-Me Heroes, asking Missouri employers to put military veterans at the front of the line when they're hiring for new jobs. More than 1,700 employers have signed up to be part of this effort.

Tonight, I am proud to report that our Show-Me Heroes program has put more than 1,000 veterans back to work here in Missouri.

The Missouri Works strategy will expand the mission of Show-Me Heroes to include on-the-job training for National Guard, Reserve and active-duty veterans who have recently left military service.

We'll continue to work tirelessly to create job opportunities for every veteran in our state.

The next pillar of Missouri Works is to accelerate investment in high-growth industries like science and technology. With more than 1,000 agribusiness, life science and biotech companies, Missouri is already home to some of the brightest minds and innovators in the world.

With the passage last year of the Missouri Science and Innovation Reinvestment Act, we are poised for rapid progress.

As part of Missouri Works, my budget includes $4 million in seed capital to invest in attracting the very best science talent to Missouri.

By speeding the flow of innovations out of the lab and into the marketplace, we're growing these industries today and creating the high-tech jobs of tomorrow.

Finally, Missouri Works will help create jobs in rural communities.

Anyone who grew up in a small town like I did knows there's something special about them. Folks want their towns to be places where their kids can grow up safe, get a good education, find a job and raise a family.

It wasn't all that long ago, just a generation or two, that folks made a decent living hand-sewing baseball uniforms in Licking … making shoes in Piedmont … or assembling typewriters in Springfield.

Those jobs may be gone, but our rural way of life is still strong.

Our Missouri Works plan will custom tailor a job-creation incentive for small-business owners in rural communities. Because we want every part of Missouri to move forward together.

We're also helping rural Missouri compete by dramatically expanding access to high-speed Internet.

Broadband access is a game-changer – for commerce … for farming … for education … for health care ... for law enforcement and public safety.

Our extremely competitive MoBroadbandNow initiative is bringing a total investment of $311 million through 18 projects to wire communities across Missouri.

Let me give you an example. Over in Otterville, we've hooked up the local school through our partnership with Sho-Me Technologies. This has significantly expanded their ability to provide web-based classes using streaming video.

Just as the railroads and interstates changed the face – and the fate – of Missouri communities in decades past, this project will help shape Missouri's future from Otterville to New London and everywhere in between.

Rural communities are a proud part of Missouri's past. They're also a vital part of Missouri's future – especially when it comes to agriculture.

Missouri farmers feed, fuel and clothe the world.

And with 108,000 farms generating more than $12 billion annually, agriculture is truly the backbone of Missouri's economy.

We want to keep Missouri agriculture growing, and our rural way of life strong. That's why I am committed to working with our farmers to open new markets, improve energy efficiency, and use the latest science and technology to make Missouri agriculture even more competitive.

Folks like Bob and Kay Vandiver are a major part the success of Missouri agriculture. Bob's parents raised a few cattle – simply trying to make a living off the land. But he and Kay have turned that farm into one of the largest in our state. It's a lasting legacy – one that will be handed down for generations.

On behalf of Missouri agriculture, please welcome one of the Show-Me State's outstanding farm families, the Vandivers: Bob, Kay, Gary, Dale and Jake.

To compete in a changing global economy, Missouri must have world-class public schools.

Our public schools have always been – and will always be – beacons of hope, opportunity and excellence for all.

No one is turned away.

Some children come to school hungry ... homeless.

Some bear the burdens of poverty and neglect.

But when a child of want … and a child of wealth … walk through our schoolhouse doors, they enter as equals.

Support for public education should not be used as a wedge to divide us.

Here in Missouri, public education is an enduring value that unites us.

Some states have opted to balance their budgets on the backs of schoolchildren.

Kansas cut its basic funding formula for K-12 schools by $232 per child. Texas slashed $4 billion from the education budget, triggering massive layoffs. South Carolina, Arizona and California have each reduced funding per pupil by more than 20 percent.

But I haven't met one parent or one teacher in Missouri who thinks we should balance our budget by taking money from their kids' classrooms.

For the past three years, even in challenging budget times, we maintained level funding for K-12 classrooms.

This year, we'll take that next step.

The budget I present tonight provides record funding for our K-12 classrooms. Because that's the right thing to do.

Several urgent issues facing public education require our action this session.

First, we must find a solution that applies the foundation formula fairly and predictably.

We also know that we have more work to do with our urban school districts on both sides of the state – to make sure that every child in every community has an equal opportunity to succeed.

Just take a look at St. Louis. We've still got a long way to go, but we're seeing how strong leadership, dedicated teachers, and committed parents are making a real difference right now.

Students have shown academic improvement for four years in a row. The district is now operating with a balanced budget. The attendance rate is at 93 percent.

From my frequent discussions with teachers, administrators and others – and through our work with organizations like Teach for America – it's clear that the St. Louis schools are finding their footing and are moving in the right direction.

We need to take steps to improve public education in a number of other areas, including charter schools.

Missouri has some strong charter schools, where inspired teachers with fresh ideas are giving children a top-notch education.

But let's be frank.

We also have charter schools where children are languishing in classrooms that aren't up to par academically, in schools that aren't well managed. And our students pay the price.

I call on the legislature to send to my desk a comprehensive charter school accountability bill that holds all charter schools – and their sponsors – to high standards of academic achievement and financial integrity.

Educating our children is a high calling, and those who answer the call deserve our support and respect. Good teachers get results. Great teachers transform lives.

We need to entice our best college students to become teachers in those urban and rural public schools that have the greatest needs. And once they're on the job, they must be accountable for what kids are learning.

Our economy is changing. And education can't stop at high school. Because by the next decade, nearly two-thirds of all jobs in the United States will require some kind of post-secondary education. That means more Missouri kids will need a college degree.

But too many families simply can't afford the cost of a college education.

So for the past three years, Missouri has tackled college affordability head-on.

While universities in other states were increasing tuition by double digits, we froze tuition in 2009 and 2010 at all our public colleges and universities.

Last year, I challenged our colleges to continue to hold down tuition.

As a result, enrollment at our public colleges has surged. Over the past three years, we've added 31,000 students. That's set a new record each fall.

And that's great news for our students, our schools and the future of our state.

In another challenging budget year, our top priorities in funding for higher education must continue to be high-quality academic programs and student scholarships.

So, in addition to a record investment in K-12 classrooms, my budget will provide stable funding for our state college scholarships, including Bright Flight, Access Missouri, and A+.

Let me talk for a moment about that A+ program.

These scholarships cover tuition and fees at any public two-year college in the state for students who are willing to work hard, play by the rules, and give back to their communities.

Since I became your Governor, we've worked to add 110 new A+ schools. And the number of students in our A+ program has risen 30 percent.

This year, 12,500 Missouri students will take advantage of our A+ scholarships. Next year, we anticipate closer to 14,000 students will be A+ scholars.

We will continue to expand access to A+ scholarships to students all across our state.

Investing in college affordability is critical for continued economic growth. But we have to balance this budget.

And we all know that means we'll have to cut in other areas.

So, to balance our budget in a way that protects our scholarships and academic programs, I am calling on all our colleges and universities to continue to look for more ways to cut overhead and administrative costs and run smarter, more efficient operations.

While leaner, more efficient operations are essential, higher education must continue to adapt for the modern economy. Public colleges and universities must change their business models.

Let me give you an exciting example of what one school is doing.

Earlier this month, the University of Central Missouri unveiled a new model called the Innovation Campus, and it has the potential to transform how we educate students.

Innovation Campus students will enroll in college courses while still in high school, and then participate in high-impact apprenticeships throughout the college curriculum. Corporate partners will underwrite tuition scholarships, and faculty and employers will partner to guide each student.

The expected results?

- Students get a running start on college requirements;
- They learn the practical skills necessary for excellent careers;
- They can earn a degree in three years or less;
- Business partners will recruit and build their workforce for the future;

- And, costs for students are dramatically reduced.

I encourage all our universities to take the lessons of the Innovation Campus to heart, and develop similar programs.

When we come together – and take that extra step – we are proving that there is no limit to what Missourians can accomplish.

Working together, we passed landmark legislation to ensure that children with autism get the therapy they need.

For too long, insurance companies weren't required to cover the most effective autism therapies. But that changed last year. And now, 1.6 million Missourians have plans that cover autism treatments.

This year, I call on the General Assembly to pass legislation to increase access to care by expanding the number of licensed professionals working with children with autism in Missouri.

That's what we can accomplish when we take that extra step.

Working together, our Partnership for Hope is changing the lives of Missourians with developmental disabilities and their families.

Before this compassionate program was in place, some folks waited years for services to help their loved ones live more independently – help with things like getting dressed, cooking meals, taking the bus to work.

But now, our Partnership includes 91 Missouri counties and the City of St. Louis, and serves 1,300 people with developmental disabilities.

This year, we'll keep expanding the Partnership, improving lives and saving money over the long run.

That's what we can accomplish when we take that extra step.

Last year, we reauthorized Missouri Rx, a vital program that cuts the cost of prescription drugs for 215,000 Missouri seniors and people with disabilities.

When that lifeline was in jeopardy last year, folks across our state came together to protect these vulnerable citizens. And my budget continues full funding for this program.

That's what we can accomplish when we take that extra step.

By working together, by taking that extra step, we've achieved a lot for our state.

We've shown that the partisan gridlock in Washington hasn't taken hold here in Missouri.

But we have more work to do.

That includes balancing our budget, and holding the line on taxes.

That includes putting the Missouri Works strategy in place to create jobs and keep our economy growing.

That includes making a record investment in K-12 classrooms, keeping college affordable, and helping all Missouri children achieve their dreams.

And that also includes passing strict campaign contribution limits.

I've called for contribution limits every year – and I'm going to keep on doing it until we change the law.

When one person with an ax to grind can make an unlimited contribution to advance a narrow agenda … when lobbyists for powerful interests can tip the balance of an election … the very foundations of our democracy are at risk.

Unlimited contributions are overriding the will of the people … and undermining the principle of free and fair elections.

Missouri needs strict limits on campaign contributions.

Let's finally get it done.

Growing up in De Soto, I learned a lot about public service at the kitchen table.

My parents were deeply committed to our community and to public service. Dad was the Mayor. Mom served on the school board.

In our town, when folks needed help they'd call the house. Usually at suppertime.

We didn't have No-Call Lists back then.

Whatever the complaint or request, I don't ever recall hearing my parents ask: Are you a Democrat or a Republican? Or did you vote for me?

Because that's not what public service is about.

When you hold public office … you represent everyone.

We saw the best of public service in action in every corner of Missouri last year. But one man stands out as a shining example. His name is C. J. Huff.

Dr. Huff is the superintendent of Joplin schools. The tornado damaged or destroyed 10 of their buildings. Joplin High was left in ruins. C. J. feared that if the schools didn't open on time, families would start to leave town. He was not about to let that happen.

So C. J. rallied his forces: parents and teachers; students and civic leaders; carpenters and plumbers … and an army of volunteers.

In just 54 days, they turned an empty department store at a shopping mall into a high-tech high school.

Not only did all of Joplin's schools open on time, nearly 95 percent of the students showed up on that first day.

Folks, that was amazing to see.

Please welcome an outstanding leader: Superintendent C.J. Huff.

Public service matters.

What we do here matters.

But in a world of term limits, skeptics say we can't get much accomplished.

In a world of hyper-partisanship, cynics say we can't find common ground.

To them I say: Just watch us.

Whether you're from the big city, or a small town.

Whether you make your living on the farm, or in a lab.

Whether you're a Democrat, a Republican, an Independent – or none of the above.

We're all Missourians first.

And here in Missouri, we're not defined by our differences.

We're defined by our shared values.

Values that give us the strength to face whatever tomorrow brings … with faith and optimism.

There's a lot of uncertainty in this life.

We can't control the weather.

We can't always see what tomorrow will bring … but one thing is clear.

Through storms and floods and hard times, the good people of Missouri never give up or give in. Even in our darkest hours, the spirit will prevail.

And when people of good faith and good will work together … nothing can stop us.

Together, we will continue balance this budget without raising taxes.

Together, we will continue to create more jobs, better schools and more compassionate communities.

And, Quinton, I pledge to you that we will continue to work together to take that extra step ... and keep Missouri moving forward.

It is an honor to serve as your Governor.

I am grateful for the opportunity you have given me, and for the trust you have placed in me.

With your help – and God's grace – we'll continue to show strong leadership to move Missouri toward brighter days ahead.

Thank you and God Bless.

The Joint Committee appointed to wait upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Richard B. (Rick) Teitelman, escorted the Chief Justice to the dais where he delivered the State of the Judiciary Address to the Joint Assembly:

Chief Justice Richard B. Teitelman's
State of the Judiciary Address

Mr. Speaker, Mr. President, Mr. President Pro Tem, Mr. Auditor, Mr. Attorney General, members of the General Assembly: Thank you for welcoming me here this morning. It is my honor to deliver this 39th state of the judiciary address. I also want to thank the staffs of the House clerk and the majority leader as well as our maintenance staff, who were kind enough to help make accommodations for me to be able to deliver this speech to you today.

As President Reagan once said, "There are no constraints on the human mind, no walls around the human spirit, no barriers to our progress except those we ourselves erect." My humble thanks to you.

I also want to thank you for your continued cooperation in working with our branch of government. I think the founders of our great nation would have been so proud of you and your predecessors in welcoming the chief justice and the governor into this beautiful chamber to talk with you each year.

In light of this week's recognition of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., I want to mention a true gem of the state - Frankie Freeman - a 95-year-old African-American woman who is being honored as the St. Louis Citizen of the Year and who has spent most of her 95 years marching as a true drum major for justice.

I was appointed to serve on the Supreme Court in 2002. I have been proud to serve there in the company of some of the finest jurists our state has ever known. I want to take a moment now to recognize my colleagues on the Court, who make every day of my job there special. I start by introducing to you our newest member, Judge George Draper III. Judge Draper - who is only the second African-American ever to serve on our state's high court - is from St. Louis, where he spent 11 years on the Court of Appeals, preceded by six years as a trial judge in St. Louis County, and before that, he served as chief trial attorney in the city's circuit attorney's office. Judge Draper, we are honored for the opportunity to serve alongside you. I also want to recognize Judge Ray Price, whose very big shoes I have to try to fill as chief justice; Judge Patty Breckenridge; Judge Zel Fischer; Judge Mary Russell and Judge Laura Stith.

It is important for me to mention all of these judges to you because the leadership for the judicial branch of government comes from all these fine men and women who are serving and who have served on the Supreme Court. I also would add my accolades to recognize our esteemed former clerk, Tom Simon, who retired at the end of May after serving with distinction for four decades as clerk of the Supreme Court of Missouri. Just to give you an idea of the kind of change Tom saw during his time at the Court ... the year he began his career, Richard Nixon was our president; you could buy a stamp for 8 cents, a gallon of gas for 40 cents and a movie ticket for $1.50; Walt Disney World opened in Orlando; the NASDAQ debuted; and television advertising of cigarettes ended. During his career at the Court, Tom did much to cultivate relationships among our branches of government. His kindness and thoughtfulness to all helped open dialogue and build friendships over time. We value those relationships. In his first inaugural address, Abraham Lincoln promoted a unifying focus on friendship and the things that bind us in affection by calling upon "the better angels of our nature."

I remember sitting here in this chamber for the first time, listening to then-Chief Justice Steve Limbaugh Jr. giving his state of the judiciary address to your predecessors. As the grandson of a former state Rep. Rush Limbaugh, he focused much of his time as chief justice talking about the honor of public service as well as the importance of those citizens we all serve. Thankfully, as he noted then, we don't have to do it all by ourselves. We have many judges in this state who serve not only their courts but also their local communities with dignity and integrity.

One judge in particular has been the source of much Missouri pride in recent months. Judge Jimmie Edwards, a circuit judge in St. Louis city, believed there needed to be an alternative to incarceration for juveniles who deserve a second chance through education. So in collaboration with 45 community partners, he took over an abandoned school and opened the Innovative Concept Academy in 2009. The academy, which serves as a "school of last resort" for at-risk youth between the ages of 10 and 18 years, recently has received a number of national accolades. People magazine named Judge Edwards as one of its 2011 Heroes of the Year, and the academy was featured on the Today show last month. But the academy's biggest success is that it has changed the lives of many young people, helping them to turn away from problems such as gang violence. So far, 18 students have earned their high school diplomas or GED, and two of them have gone on to college. Judge Edwards is here this morning along with some of his students. Would you please stand and be recognized? We could not be more proud of you!

Many court employees throughout the state went to Joplin following the disaster to help the courageous citizens of Joplin rebuild their lives and their community. Our hearts go out to everyone affected by this disaster - and our appreciation goes to everyone who lent a helping hand. Vince Lombardi said, "Individual commitment to a group effort - that is what makes a team work, a company work, a society work, a civilization work." I am so proud to live in a state that works as well as it does because its citizens and public servants are so generous with their prayers and other assistance and are so willing to work together.

Much can be accomplished when, as Thomas Jefferson encouraged, we "unite with one heart and one mind." We owe many thanks for the bipartisan effort to improve criminal justice to Speaker of the House Steve Tilley and President Pro Tem Rob Mayer - as well as Governor Jay Nixon and former Chief Justice Ray Price. I understand legislation soon will be introduced to implement the recommendations of a broad-based committee led by Sen. Jack Goodman and Rep. Chris Kelly. I support your efforts to help make sentencing practices more cost-effective, helping Missouri to become, as Judge Price stressed so often, both tough and smart on crime.

We also owe you many thanks for helping the courts with their efforts in the area of technology. The state court administrator's office has undertaken a remarkable cooperative effort to help make our records more accessible through electronic filing. If any of you want a demonstration of how the system works, just let us know, and we will be happy to show you!

A wise man once said the worst kind of death is being talked to death. As we come to the end of my speech, I am reminded by the quote carved into the dais behind me of the privilege of public service. That quote reflects our state motto, "Salus Populi Supreme Lex Esto," which means, "Let the welfare of the people be the supreme law." I look forward to working with you and getting to know many of you better throughout my time as chief justice. I am humbled to serve alongside you.

I have learned it is never good to get in the way of a good meal. With that, The Missouri Bar asks you to join them in the third-floor rotunda for a lunch of fried chicken with all the fixings ... and, for the first time, they're even offering knishes!

Thank you. God Bless America!

On motion of Senator Dempsey, the Joint Session was dissolved and the Senators returned to the Chamber where they were called to order by President Pro Tem Mayer.

INTRODUCTIONS OF GUESTS

Senator Cunningham introduced to the Senate, the Physician of the Day, Dr. John Hagen, M.D., St. Louis.

On motion of Senator Dempsey, the Senate adjourned under the rules.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS

Senator Dempsey offered the following concurrent resolution:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 15

WHEREAS, the United States Corps of Engineers' five-year study of the Upper Mississippi River Basin, which is everything north of Cairo, Illinois, failed to produce a plan for flood control acceptable to all stakeholders; and

WHEREAS, the Mississippi River Commission did recommend Plan H to the United States Congress; and

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers has not recommended this plan to the United States Congress, citing the expense of the construction of 500-year levees along these rivers, estimated to be $6 billion, does not meet current cost-benefit guidelines for federal funding; and

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers additionally determined a need for better data based upon new hydrology and flow studies and the need to study tributaries of the Mississippi River; and

WHEREAS, the Corps of Engineers indicated that ramifications of the additional 500-year levees and their potential to cause additional flooding would need to be determined, and affected populations and communities informed and advised of the potential impact; and

WHEREAS, the affected counties include the Missouri counties of Lincoln, Pike, and St. Charles; and

WHEREAS, Plan H designates only about half of the levees in the Missouri counties of Lincoln, Pike, and St. Charles be raised, while to the north a higher percentage of 500-year levees are recommended for both sides of the river; and

WHEREAS, the stakeholders in the Missouri counties of Lincoln, Pike, and St. Charles desire the protections provided by the 500-year levees; and

WHEREAS, the proposed Plan H, if implemented, denies the benefits of 500-year levees to those making a living along the Mississippi River, negatively impacting agriculture, transportation, businesses, industries, tourism, hunting, fishing, boating, infrastructure, and residences; and

WHEREAS, over 6,500 citizens have signed petitions opposing the proposed Plan H; and

WHEREAS, the Upper Mississippi River Basin should receive funding comparable to funding for the Southern Mississippi River Basin from Cairo, Illinois, to New Orleans, Louisiana:

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the members of the Missouri Senate, Ninety-sixth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, the House of Representatives concurring therein, hereby strongly urge the United States Congress to support a comprehensive plan for the Upper Mississippi River Basin that enhances system-wide flood control without creating adverse impacts on existing levees, levee districts, rural communities, and metropolitan areas. The plan should be based on analysis that quantifies the impacts of enhanced flood control measures and acknowledges the importance of keeping agricultural land in production. The proposed Plan H making the Missouri counties of Lincoln, Pike, and St. Charles the lowest points on the Mississippi River levee system is totally unacceptable and we ask the Missouri Congressional delegation to oppose this plan; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Missouri Senate be instructed to prepare properly inscribed copies of this resolution for each member of the Missouri Congressional delegation.

SECOND REGULAR SESSION

ELEVENTH DAY—TUESDAY, JANUARY 24, 2012

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

President Kinder in the Chair.

Reverend Carl Gauck offered the following prayer:

"A word fitly spoken is like gold." (Proverbs 25:11)

Gracious God, keep us mindful how people listen closely to what we have to say: some rejoice in what is said and others listen to criticize and disagree. So help us prepare well for what we have to say and write, to be efficient and aware of our audience. And may we be ever mindful of the power of our words and the good and harm they can do. In Your Holy Name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was recited.

A quorum being established, the Senate proceeded with its business.

The Journal of the previous day was read and approved.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 1298

WHEREAS, the Missouri Senate recognizes the importance of empowering citizens to actively participate in the democratic process; and

WHEREAS, the Senate has a long tradition of rendering assistance to those organizations which sponsor projects in the interest of good citizenship; and

WHEREAS, the Missouri Catholic Conference has as its purposes to promote the material and spiritual well being of all the people of the state of Missouri and to participate in the democratic process of government:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the members of the Missouri Senate, Ninety-sixth General Assembly, that the Missouri Catholic Conference be hereby granted permission to use the Senate Chamber and the Senate Hearing Rooms from 7:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, October 6, 2012, for the purpose of a citizens assembly and workshops.

Senator Kehoe requested unanimous consent of the Senate that the rules be suspended for the purpose of taking SR 1298 up for adoption, which request was granted.

On motion of Senator Kehoe, SR 1298 was adopted.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS

Senator Stouffer offered the following concurrent resolution:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 16

WHEREAS, in the year 2011, heavy rainfall and snowmelt along the Missouri River combined with intentional releases of impounded water by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers caused unprecedented amounts of water flow on the river, which led to breached levees and widespread flooding for the states along the river, including Missouri; and

WHEREAS, the extensive flooding destroyed many homes, farms, and businesses, severely impacting the livelihoods of thousands of Missourians, who, in addition to suffering the emotional toll of the disaster, are also suffering a heavy economic burden to repair the devastated land and infrastructure; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is charged with management of the Missouri River for eight congressionally-authorized purposes, one of which is flood control; and

WHEREAS, the Army Corps of Engineers has worked extensively for numerous years to develop the Missouri River Master Manual to guide its management of the river which seeks to balance the competing interests of the eight authorized purposes; and

WHEREAS, it is evident that due to the immediate, large-scale and potentially life-threatening impacts upon public health and safety caused by flooding, the authorized purpose of flood control must have the utmost importance in any planning activities on the part of the Army Corps; and

WHEREAS, as a result of the widespread devastation caused by the flood events of 2011, an independent technical review panel was formed to evaluate the Army Corps' river management performance and, specifically, its performance with regard to its responsibility to protect public health and safety through flood control; and

WHEREAS, the independent technical review panel issued its findings and recommendations in December 2011 and concluded that while the Army Corps may have acted in accordance with the Master Manual, the Master Manual itself may not be appropriately flexible or responsive to adequately protect the public from flooding in the case of extreme weather events such as those experienced in 2011; and

WHEREAS, the panel's report further concluded that the Army Corps' Master Manual should not regard extreme weather events such as the precipitation in 2011 as rare, isolated events, but rather as part of a potential climatic pattern for which the Army Corps must be continuously prepared to address; and

WHEREAS, understanding that the prediction of future weather patterns is not an exact science, the Army Corps must allow greater flexibility in its management activities of reservoir storage and spring rise to anticipate and respond to higher than expected snow and rainfall in the river basin so as to prevent future catastrophic flooding events like that which occurred in 2011 and to position the Army Corps to be successful in accomplishing its flood control duties and protecting the public from disasters that could have been prevented:

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the members of the Missouri Senate, Ninety-sixth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, the House of Representatives concurring therein, hereby urge the Commanding General of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to accept the recommendations of the independent technical review panel and modify its Missouri River Master Manual so as to conduct its river management activities in proper accordance with the Corps' mandated responsibility to protect public health and safety through flood control; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers be urged to continually place the utmost priority on flood control in any future modifications to the Missouri River Master Manual and in its annual planning with the goal of allowing the Army Corps to be able to successfully react and respond to unpredictable weather and extreme weather events so as to prevent future flooding disasters; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Missouri Senate be instructed to prepare properly inscribed copies of this resolution for the Commanding General of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the members of the Missouri Congressional delegation.

Senator Lamping offered the following concurrent resolution:

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 17

WHEREAS, two of this country's greatest waterways, the Mississippi River on Missouri's eastern border and the Missouri River which winds across the state, helped Missouri become a supply center for many of the westward-bound settlers of the nation's early years; and

WHEREAS, from the muddy Missouri to the swift and clear Jacks Fork, the hundreds of rivers and streams in Missouri snake across more than 110,000 miles of the state - more than four times the distance around the earth - providing endless recreational opportunities for Missourians, including boating, fishing, swimming, and bird watching along the bluffs bordering our many rivers and streams; and

WHEREAS, shipping along the navigable rivers boosted Missouri's status as an agriculture supplier, barges and steamboats used the waterways to move goods, river towns boomed, and railroads continued to fuel the growth of Missouri as a large transportation center; and

WHEREAS, the Missouri Territory, and later the State of Missouri, took the name of the Missouri River which was named for the Missouri Indians who lived along the banks. The name "Missouri" means "people of the wood canoe"; and

WHEREAS, the State of Missouri has many nicknames, with the most widely recognized being "The Show-Me State". Missouri is also called the "The Cave State", "The Lead State", "The Bullion State", "The Ozark State", "The Iron Mountain State", and the "Pennsylvania of the West"; and

WHEREAS, roads along or near both banks of the Mississippi River along its entire length have been designated as "The Great River Road" and are marked with a special road sign which depicts a ship's wheel; and

WHEREAS, the Great Rivers Greenway District was established in November 2000 in St. Louis City, St. Louis County, and St. Charles County to eventually develop "The River Ring" as an interconnected system of greenways, parks, and trails in the St. Louis area which will enhance the quality of life for residents and visitors; and

WHEREAS, from confluence of the Big Muddy and the Mighty Mississippi at the eastern portion of the state and looking north, south, or west, the State of Missouri includes the land that Meriwether Lewis and William Clark scanned as they began their journey up the Missouri River on their Voyage of Discovery in 1804, the land that is habitat for deer, turkey, bald eagles, and other wildlife, the land that is farmland abundant with agricultural crops, and the same land that held 260 billion gallons of water during the Great Flood of 1993; and

WHEREAS, with much of Missouri's history tied to the mighty rivers that flow through it, Missouri should also be known as the "The Great Rivers State":

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the members of the Missouri Senate, Ninety-sixth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, the House of Representatives concurring therein, hereby encourage the use of the slogan "The Great Rivers State" as a slogan for the State of Missouri and urge the Division of Tourism within the Department of Economic Development to recognize and incorporate the slogan in promoting Missouri tourism; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Missouri Senate be instructed to prepare a properly inscribed copy of this resolution for Kathleen Steele-Danner, the Director of the Division of Tourism.

Senator Pearce assumed the Chair.

Senator Munzlinger moved that SS for SCS for SB 467 be adopted.

Senator Green offered SA 1:

SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 1

Amend Senate Substitute for Senate Committee Substitute for Senate Bill No. 467, Page 3, Section 37.850, Line 18, by inserting after all of said line, the following:

"536.087. 1. A party who prevails in an agency proceeding or civil action arising therefrom, brought by or against the state, shall be awarded those reasonable fees and expenses incurred by that party in the civil action or agency proceeding, unless the court or agency finds that the position of the state was substantially justified or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

2. In awarding reasonable fees and expenses under this section to a party who prevails in any action for judicial review of an agency proceeding, the court shall include in that award reasonable fees and expenses incurred during such agency proceeding unless the court finds that during such agency proceeding the position of the state was substantially justified, or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

3. A party seeking an award of fees and other expenses shall, within thirty days of a final disposition in an agency proceeding or final judgment in a civil action, submit to the court, agency or commission which rendered the final disposition or judgment an application which shows that the party is a prevailing party and is eligible to receive an award under this section, and the amount sought, including an itemized statement from any attorney or expert witness representing or appearing in behalf of the party stating the actual time expended and the rate at which fees and other expenses are computed. The party shall also allege that the position of the state was not substantially justified. The fact that the state has lost the agency proceeding or civil action creates no legal presumption that its position was not substantially justified. Whether or not the position of the state was substantially justified shall be determined on the basis of the record (including the record with respect to the action or failure to act by an agency upon which a civil action is based) which is made in the agency proceeding or civil action for which fees and other expenses are sought, and on the basis of the record of any hearing the court or agency deems appropriate to determine whether an award of reasonable fees and expenses should be made, provided that any such hearing shall be limited to consideration of matters which affected the agency's decision leading to the position at issue in the fee application.

4. A prevailing party in an agency proceeding shall submit an application for fees and expenses to the administrative body before which the party prevailed. A prevailing party in a civil action on appeal from an agency proceeding shall submit an application for fees and expenses to the court. The filing of an application shall not stay the time for appealing the merits of a case. When the state appeals the underlying merits of an adversary proceeding, no decision on the application for fees and other expenses in connection with that adversary proceeding shall be made under this section until a final and unreviewable decision is rendered by the court on the appeal or until the underlying merits of the case have been finally determined pursuant to the appeal.

5. The court or agency may either reduce the amount to be awarded or deny any award, to the extent that the prevailing party during the course of the proceedings engaged in conduct which unduly and unreasonably protracted the final resolution of the matter in controversy.

6. The decision of a court or an agency on the application for reasonable fees and expenses shall be in writing, separate from the judgment or order of the court or the administrative decision which determined the prevailing party, and shall include written findings and conclusions and the reason or basis therefor. The decision of a court or an agency on the application for fees and other expenses shall be final, subject respectively to appeal or judicial review.

7. SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 18

WHEREAS, the Missouri General Assembly, acting with the best of intentions, applied to the Congress of the United States by resolution in accordance with Article V, Constitution of the United States, for a constitutional convention for the purpose of amending the Constitution of the United States; and

WHEREAS, Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 3, was passed by the Eighty-second General Assembly of the State of Missouri in 1983 specifically proposing a constitutional convention for the sole purpose of adopting an amendment requiring a balanced federal budget; and

WHEREAS, over the course of time, the will of the people of the State of Missouri has changed with regards to Missouri's previous call for a constitutional convention to amend the Constitution of the United States; and

WHEREAS, certain persons or states have called for a constitutional convention on issues that may be directly in opposition to the will of the people of this state; and

WHEREAS, the people of this state do not want their previous applications for a constitutional convention to be aggregated with those calls for a convention from other states; and

WHEREAS, former Justice of the United States Supreme Court Warren E. Burger, former Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Arthur J. Goldberg and many other leading constitutional scholars are in general agreement that a convention, notwithstanding whatever limitation might be placed on it by the call for a convention, may propose sweeping constitutional changes or, by virtue of the authority of a constitutional convention, redraft the Constitution of the United States creating an imminent peril to the well established rights of citizens and to the duties of various levels of government; and

WHEREAS, the Constitution of the United States has been amended many times in the history of this nation and may be amended many more times without the need to resort to a constitutional convention, and has been interpreted for more than two hundred years and found to be a sound document that protects the lives and liberties of citizens; and

WHEREAS, there is no need for, and in fact there is great danger in, a new constitution or in opening the Constitution of the United States to radical changes, the adoption of which could create legal chaos in this nation and begin the process of another two centuries of litigation over its meaning and interpretation; and

WHEREAS, changes or amendments that may be needed in the present Constitution of the United States may be proposed and enacted without resorting to a constitutional convention by using the process provided in the Constitution and previously used throughout the history of this nation:

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the members of the Missouri Senate, Ninety-sixth General Assembly, Second Regular Session, the House of Representatives concurring therein, that the Missouri General Assembly hereby repeals, rescinds, cancels, renders null and void and supersedes any and all existing applications to the Congress of the United States for a constitutional convention under Article V of the Constitution of the United States for any purpose, whether limited or general; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Missouri General Assembly urges the legislature of each and every state that has applied to Congress for either a general or limited constitutional convention to repeal and rescind their applications; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of the Senate be instructed to prepare a properly inscribed copy of this resolution for the President of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, the Administrator of General Services in Washington, D.C., each member of Missouri's Congressional delegation, and the Secretaries of State and presiding officers of both houses of the legislatures of each state in the Union.

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

President Kinder in the Chair.

Reverend Carl Gauck offered the following prayer:

"The greatest privilege God gives to you is the freedom to approach Him at any time." (Wesley L. Duewel)

You have given us Your name so we know who it is who loves us and listens to our petitions. And we are thankful for the privilege to be so honored. So we ask for Your guidance this week as we have begun to look at needful things. Bless us with wisdom to know what is most helpful and needed by our people and we will do what is required of us. SECOND REGULAR SESSION

FIFTEENTH DAY—TUESDAY, JANUARY 31, 2012

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

"To discover God in the smallest and most ordinary things as well as in the greatest, is to possess a rare and sublime faith." (Jean-Pierre De Caussade)

Help us to be aware of the small things like acts of kindness and courtesy, caring and joy. Help us embrace all that is about us there for our joy and happiness, to comfort and support us. Let us not be so taken with ourselves so that we have little room for others about us and therefore miss our opportunity to serve You, O God. In Your Holy Name we pray. Amen.

SENATE AMENDMENT NO. 1

Amend Senate Substitute for Senate Committee Substitute for Senate Bill No. 469, Page 1, Section 536.041, Line 14, by striking "1."; and

Further amend said bill and section, page 2, lines 22-28 by striking all of said lines from the bill; and

Further amend said bill and section, page 3, lines 1-28 by striking all of said lines from the bill; and

Further amend said bill, pages 4-7, section 536.087 by striking all of said section from the bill; and

Further amend said bill, page 11, section 536.325, line 13 by inserting after all of said line the following:

"[536.087. 1. A party who prevails in an agency proceeding or civil action arising therefrom, brought by or against the state, shall be awarded those reasonable fees and expenses incurred by that party in the civil action or agency proceeding, unless the court or agency finds that the position of the state was substantially justified or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

2. In awarding reasonable fees and expenses under this section to a party who prevails in any action for judicial review of an agency proceeding, the court shall include in that award reasonable fees and expenses incurred during such agency proceeding unless the court finds that during such agency proceeding the position of the state was substantially justified, or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

3. A party seeking an award of fees and other expenses shall, within thirty days of a final disposition in an agency proceeding or final judgment in a civil action, submit to the court, agency or commission which rendered the final disposition or judgment an application which shows that the party is a prevailing party and is eligible to receive an award under this section, and the amount sought, including an itemized statement from any attorney or expert witness representing or appearing in behalf of the party stating the actual time expended and the rate at which fees and other expenses are computed. The party shall also allege that the position of the state was not substantially justified. The fact that the state has lost the agency proceeding or civil action creates no legal presumption that its position was not substantially justified. Whether or not the position of the state was substantially justified shall be determined on the basis of the record (including the record with respect to the action or failure to act by an agency upon which a civil action is based) which is made in the agency proceeding or civil action for which fees and other expenses are sought, and on the basis of the record of any hearing the court or agency deems appropriate to determine whether an award of reasonable fees and expenses should be made, provided that any such hearing shall be limited to consideration of matters which affected the agency's decision leading to the position at issue in the fee application.

4. A prevailing party in an agency proceeding shall submit an application for fees and expenses to the administrative body before which the party prevailed. A prevailing party in a civil action on appeal from an agency proceeding shall submit an application for fees and expenses to the court. The filing of an application shall not stay the time for appealing the merits of a case. When the state appeals the underlying merits of an adversary proceeding, no decision on the application for fees and other expenses in connection with that adversary proceeding shall be made under this section until a final and unreviewable decision is rendered by the court on the appeal or until the underlying merits of the case have been finally determined pursuant to the appeal.

5. The court or agency may either reduce the amount to be awarded or deny any award, to the extent that the prevailing party during the course of the proceedings engaged in conduct which unduly and unreasonably protracted the final resolution of the matter in controversy.

6. The decision of a court or an agency on the application for reasonable fees and expenses shall be in writing, separate from the judgment or order of the court or the administrative decision which determined the prevailing party, and shall include written findings and conclusions and the reason or basis therefor. The decision of a court or an agency on the application for fees and other expenses shall be final, subject respectively to appeal or judicial review.

7. If a party or the state is dissatisfied with a determination of fees and other expenses made in an agency proceeding, that party or the state may within thirty days after the determination is made, seek judicial review of that determination from the court having jurisdiction to review the merits of the underlying decision of the agency adversary proceeding. If a party or the state is dissatisfied with a determination of fees and other expenses made in a civil action arising from an agency proceeding, that party or the state may, within the time permitted by law, appeal that order or judgment to the appellate court having jurisdiction to review the merits of that order or judgment. The reviewing or appellate court's determination on any judicial review or appeal heard under this subsection shall be based solely on the record made before the agency or court below. The court may modify, reverse or reverse and remand the determination of fees and other expenses if the court finds that the award or failure to make an award of fees and other expenses, or the calculation of the amount of the award, was arbitrary and capricious, was unreasonable, was unsupported by competent and substantial evidence, or was made contrary to law or in excess of the court's or agency's jurisdiction. Awards made pursuant to this act shall be payable from amounts appropriated therefor. The state agency against which the award was made shall request an appropriation to pay the award.]"; and Further amend the title and enacting clause accordingly.

Senator Crowell moved that the above amendment be adopted.

Senator Pearce assumed the Chair.

At the request of Senator Dixon, SB 469, with SCS, SS for SCS and SA 1 (pending), was placed on the Informal Calendar.

Any claim or judgment arising under paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section shall be paid by the state legal expense fund or any policy of insurance procured pursuant to section 105.721, to the extent damages are allowed under sections 538.205 to 538.235. Liability or malpractice insurance obtained and maintained in force by any health care professional licensed or registered under chapter 330, 331, 332, 334, 335, 336, 337, or 338 for coverage concerning his or her private practice and assets shall not be considered available under subsection 7 of this section to pay that portion of a judgment or claim for which the state legal expense fund is liable under paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section. However, a health care professional licensed or registered under chapter 330, 331, 332, 334, 335, 336, 337, or 338 may purchase liability or malpractice insurance for coverage of liability claims or judgments based upon care rendered under paragraphs (c), (d), (e), and (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section which exceed the amount of liability coverage provided by the state legal expense fund under those paragraphs. Even if paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section is repealed or modified, the state legal expense fund shall be available for damages which occur while the pertinent paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section is in effect.

4. The attorney general shall promulgate rules regarding contract procedures and the documentation of legal practice provided under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section. The limitation on payments from the state legal expense fund or any policy of insurance procured pursuant to section 105.721 as provided in subsection 7 of this section shall not apply to any claim or judgment arising under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section. Any claim or judgment arising under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section shall be paid by the state legal expense fund or any policy of insurance procured pursuant to section 105.721 to the extent damages are allowed under sections 538.205 to 538.235. Liability or malpractice insurance otherwise obtained and maintained in force shall not be considered available under subsection 7 of this section to pay that portion of a judgment or claim for which the state legal expense fund is liable under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section. However, an attorney may obtain liability or malpractice insurance for coverage of liability claims or judgments based upon legal practice rendered under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section that exceed the amount of liability coverage provided by the state legal expense fund under subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section. Even if subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section is repealed or amended, the state legal expense fund shall be available for damages that occur while the pertinent subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section is in effect.

5. All payments shall be made from the state legal expense fund by the commissioner of administration with the approval of the attorney general. Payment from the state legal expense fund of a claim or final judgment award against a health care professional licensed or registered under chapter 330, 331, 332, 334,

335, 336, 337, or 338, described in paragraph (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), or (f) of subdivision (3) of subsection 2 of this section, or against an attorney in subdivision (5) of subsection 2 of this section, shall only be made for services rendered in accordance with the conditions of such paragraphs. In the case of any claim or judgment against an officer or employee of the state or any agency of the state based upon conduct of such officer or employee arising out of and performed in connection with his or her official duties on behalf of the state or any agency of the state that would give rise to a cause of action under section 537.600, the state legal expense fund shall be liable, excluding punitive damages, for:

(1) Economic damages to any one claimant; and

(2) Up to three hundred fifty thousand dollars for noneconomic damages. The state legal expense fund shall be the exclusive remedy and shall preclude any other civil actions or proceedings for money damages arising out of or relating to the same subject matter against the state officer or employee, or the officer's or employee's estate. No officer or employee of the state or any agency of the state shall be individually liable in his or her personal capacity for conduct of such officer or employee arising out of and performed in connection with his or her official duties on behalf of the state or any agency of the state. The provisions of this subsection shall not apply to any defendant who is not an officer or employee of the state or any agency of the state in any proceeding against an officer or employee of the state or any agency of the state. Nothing in this subsection shall limit the rights and remedies otherwise available to a claimant under state law or common law in proceedings where one or more defendants is not an officer or employee of the state or any agency of the state.
